Hunguest Saliris

Hunguest Saliris opened its exclusive Spa, Health, and Thermal Bath in Egerszalók in the summer of 2007. The hotel welcoming guests since May 2010. Spanning 1900 square meters of water surface, the facility houses a total of 17 indoor and outdoor pools—thermal sitting pools, whirlpools, adventure pools, children's pools, echo Kneipp pools, and scented pools—ensuring enjoyable experiences for both older and younger visitors. Nestled in a beautiful and unique natural environment within the valley of the Laskó Stream, Hunguest Saliris is located 6 kilometers away from Eger. Hungary hosts several such healing energy areas where individuals feel rejuvenated, energetic, and experience a reduction in physical discomfort. Egerszalók is among the most renowned places in Hungary known for its healing and positively vibrating energies.

The term „Saliris” is a complex, imaginative word, meaning „salt rainbow.” It refers to the salt hill, a symbol of Egerszalók, as well as the diversity offered by the hotel. A pivotal aspect of the hotel's mission is to ensure that guests, rich with experiences and positively charged, contemplate their return while reminiscing about their visit.

The complex comprises three distinct sections:

- Spa, Health, and Thermal Bath
- Hotel
- Beach

Wellness Complex and Thermal Water

The pool areas are located on the first floor, accessible through a closed glass corridor, and passage is allowed only in swimwear and slippers.

The bath consists of 50% indoor and 50% outdoor pools. Passing through the corridor leads to the wellness reception. Following this, you'll find the bath's restaurant and café. Moving down the stairs, relaxation terraces are designed on both sides. On the right from the stairs are the wellness pools and the children's pool, while on the left, you'll find the therapeutic pools.

Thermal Water

The mineral-rich thermal water, at a temperature of 65–68°C, continuously forms impressive lace-like white formations, shaping the limestone hill known as Salt Hill. This sodium-containing, calcium-magnesium hydrogen carbonate thermal water, with significant metacolic acid content, ranks among the best in the category of sulfuric medicinal waters. Over the years, the limestone hill has become a symbol and trademark of the area. Similar natural formations can be found only in two other places in the world: Pamukkale in the Asian part of Turkey and Yellowstone National Park in the United States.

The first well was drilled in 1961, after the exploration for oil and gas, and the second in 1987. The wells were consecrated in the fall of 2010 and received the names Mary and Wendel. The Miraculous Mary icon is located in the Catholic church of Egerszalók, while Saint Wendel is the patron saint of the springs and wells.

Sauna World

The bath's exclusive Sauna World offers a unique experience for sauna enthusiasts, with sections for clothed and unclothed sauna use. Guests can use the indoor saunas, plunge pool, two bucket showers, showers, and whirlpool even while wearing swimwear.

Several sauna sessions, guided by awarded sauna masters, take place daily in the log houses. More information about these sessions can be obtained at the bath's information desk and on the information board at the entrance of the Sauna World.

Activities:

Egerszalók:

Egerszalók is a small village with around 2000 inhabitants situated between the Mátra and Bükk mountains, in the valley of the Laskó stream. With its natural formations, exquisite wines, waters, and stone monuments, it fits into the Stone Tour route of the Egri Kistérség. The village's charm lies in the natural beauty of its surroundings. Its true attraction is the 27,000-year-old thermal spring rising from deep within the earth. The water flowing down the hillside formed a 1900 square meter limestone deposit – the salt hill. Within the village's borders, you'll find shrine stones, which are likely remnants of rhyolitic tuff, strengthened by volcanic after-effects due to the influence of warm, acidic waters. These shrine stones are hollowed out into the rhyolitic tuff block, resembling huts with stone beds and shelves.

Egerszalók: Tourist Information Office and Landscape Room

In the Valley of Healing Waters, Egerszalók hosts the Tourist Information Office, aiding tourists' orientation and serving as an exhibition space and venue for numerous events.

Egerszalók Cricket Bus

With the Cricket Bus, you can easily tour the village's attractions and get acquainted with local sights. All this while sitting on an electric minibus, combined with guided tours accompanied by music. Only available seasonally. The ride takes about 45 minutes, with the final stop at the Cave Apartments (end of Sáfrány Street). For information about the service, inquire at the Egerszalók Tourist Office.

Egerszalók Cave Apartments and Sáfránykert

Explore the renovated Cave Apartments, take a look around, recognize old furniture, tools, and take part in a time travel experience with the help of a 3D cinema! The Cave Apartments provide a pleasant setting for evening performances, concerts, and serve as an excellent venue for wine tastings. In 2017, the Cave Apartments expanded, and the Sáfránykert was established. The Sáfránykert boasts various features: time machine / 3D cinema, garden showcases, oven demonstrations, a fairy tale cave, yurt camp, and an outdoor stage.

Egerszalók: Bandit Hideaway Beehive Stone

The beehive stones represent one of Bükkalja's main tourist attractions, primarily due to their unique formation and their mysterious use throughout history. Riolite tuff, formed around 10 to 20 million years ago during volcanic eruptions, was hardened by hot, acidic solutions, which made certain areas tougher, resulting in the formation of these so-called tuff cones.

Wishing you a pleasant time at Hunguest Saliris! For any requests or questions, feel free to approach our staff!
